THE ORIGINAL CEYLON TEA PEOPLE

Ceylon Tea

Sri Lanka is the second largest exporter of tea in the world and is renowned for its black teas which are considered the best in the world, with a distinct character derived from the temperate climates of the country's many tea growing regions.

Its variety of fine flavours and consistent quality have earned Ceylon tea a preference among tea connoisseurs and the ability to command high prices. The superior quality of Ceylon tea is owed to its traditional processing methods - Ceylon tea is still plucked by hand to ensure that only the best buds and tender leaves go into making the tea.

The introduction of tea to Ceylon by its British rulers radically altered the economic landscape of the country. Today, the tea industry employs over 1.5 Million people and contributes towards one fourth of total exports.
